Agenda

This Mainpro® C interactive workshop will provide participants with a deeper understanding of prenatal and early years factors that can significantly impact a child's developmental trajectory.

Learning Objectives

1. Participants will increase their knowledge regarding the importance of attachment/bonding.
2. Participants will become more informed about the various community agencies/services that provide screening and intervention prenatally and for young children who are exhibiting, or who are at risk for developmental delay.
3. Participants will learn how to choose and implement effective screening tools in the context of a primary care clinical setting, recognizing when and where to refer children and families.
4. Participants will have an opportunity to pose questions and present their own challenging cases for discussion with their colleagues and community partnership representatives.
5. Participants will become more aware of the unique needs of newcomer families primarily focusing on the prenatal and early years.
